

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, SEPT. 7

Mr. Roosevelt has sharply defined the issue of conservation and placed himself openly in opposition to the attitude assumed by President Taft. He did this in St. Paul yesterday in his speech to the conservation congress. The contrast between the position taken by him and that of his successor in the presidency was made so clear that all were forced to realize its existence. Mr. Taft has endorsed state control of water-power sites and of other natural resources. Mr. Roosevelt declared, without mentioning the president in this connection, that the special interests which have advanced this proposition do so to escape all regulation and supervision, and are for state regulation only because they believe it would prove ineffective, while those who are advocating state control do so in behalf of the special interests and against the interests of the general public. Mr. Roosevelt said on the platform that much of his own speech would be a repetition of what had been well said by the president on Monday, but when he came to the real questions that form the issues in the fight for and against conservation all similarity in the views of the two men disappeared.

HUNDREDS of thousands of vacationists returning from mountain and seaside, Monday, taxed the capacity of the railroads entering New York. Estimates by station masters and train masters of the various roads brought the total number up to half a million. The heavy traffic is not expected to diminish before a day or two. To handle the expected Labor Day throngs returning from summer outings, trains were run in double sections, and frequently in as many as six sections. The vacation season is nearing its close. Thousands who have spent the summer in Europe are now returning, many in the steerage of steamers, being unable to procure saloon tickets by reason of the extraordinary demand for cabin accommodations. As is always the case, the great majority of mankind have no vacation, but continue to toil on 'mid winters' snows and summers' heat.

ELVEN pairs were simultaneously joined in marriage at the Polish Catholic church in Utica, N. Y., Monday, by the pastor, who completed the whole sale knot-tying process in an hour. The marriages were witnessed by 1,500 persons, who crowded the church to the doors. The ceremony snatched all local records for a day in one church and with but one clergyman officiating. The pastor explained that Labor Day was selected because the bridegrooms could have the marriage ceremony performed without losing any time from their employment.

AS HAD been anticipated, notwithstanding the pretended optimism of state patters, the result of yesterday's elections in Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Vermont and Michigan saw a decided falling off in the republican vote. President Taft and his coadjutors are working assiduously in the effort to consolidate their party, but the breach is widening every day. It is about time the people of the country were throwing off a yoke which has been oppressing the bulk of the inhabitants of the country for nearly half a century.

"Dick Stone," concededly the finest bulldog in the world and for which his owner, Walter Jeffries, refused $50,000 only a few weeks ago, died suddenly in London a few days ago. He was a grandson of "Rodney Stone," for which Richard Croker was reported to have paid $50,000. From the figures given above it seems that the number of opulent dog fanciers shows no diminution.

The Ballinger-Pinchot Investigation, Minneapolis, Sept. 7.—When the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigating committee assembled today for the first formal meeting of its final session, the anti-Ballinger members were in the majority, five to three.

Senator Knute Nelson, of Minnesota chairman, favored an adjournment until Representatives Olmsted, Pennsylvania, and Derby, Michigan, reach Minneapolis. The democratic quartette led by Representative Olin James of Kentucky, objected and carried their point, the committee being in executive session all morning.

Miss Leneve Confesses. London, Sept. 7.—Ethel Clare Leneve has, it is said, confessed to all that she knows concerning the fate of Belle Elmore, the wife of Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, whom he is charged with slaying, and the girl for love of whom the physician is said to have committed the crime will be the chief witness against him.

William Holman Hunt, celebrated painter and one of the three founders of the Pre-Raphaelite movement, died in London today, aged 83.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Correspondence of Alexandria Gazette

The board of charities took up the fight today to open the doors of Washington's hospitals to Mrs. Margaret Cook, a mother of a family who came here from Westmoreland county, Virginia, suffering with pellagra. The case is the third to make its appearance in Washington within a few weeks. As Mrs. Cook is not a resident of the district, the hospital authorities have refused to accept her as a patient and with her three small children she is at a house in Florida avenue awaiting the outcome of the efforts of the board of charities.

The Washington hospital authorities are loath to wrestle with the strange malady. For this reason Mrs. Cook will probably be sent back to Virginia to seek admission into some of the hospitals there. The tragic element of the present case is accentuated by the woman's fear of entering a hospital. Her frantic husband has tried to secure proper treatment for her outside the hospital, but physicians say that this is impossible in the case of so pernicious disease as pellagra.

Midshipman Bernard R. Peyton, of Mississippi, who was obliged to forego a naval career because of chronic sea sickness, will become a second lieutenant in the artillery branch of the army if he passes the physical examination. This decision was reached by the War Department today. Peyton struggled heroically to overcome the sea sickness which grappled with him the moment he was out of sight of land, but without avail. He was never able to gain his sea legs. For this reason he chose the army as an alternative career.

The news of La Follette's victory in Wisconsin, the insurgent success in New Hampshire and the gain of the progressives in Michigan was received in the camp of the administration regular republicans here today with a feeling that "the worst has happened."

Standpat organization men had centered their forces against La Follette, bold, resourceful and most radical of all the insurgent leaders. Primary results in Kansas, Iowa, California and, in fact, throughout the country, up to date, are taken here to forebode one of the liveliest sessions of Congress ever held, with progressive measures in the foreground; the resumption of the fight for physical valuation of railroads; the prominence of effective conservation legislation and hard "last days" for such retiring veterans of the regular ranks as Senators Aldrich and Hale. President Taft had withheld from La Follette the patronage usually given a senator of the president's party. His colleague, Senator Stephenson, 81 years old, received the spoils. He was so pleased with the administration that he presented the chief executive with a prize cow. Special efforts to neutralize the national republican congressional committee, Vice President Sherman is the guiding spirit of the committee.

Capt. E. G. Schaefer received a cablegram this morning announcing the death of General M. Emmet Urell, of the District National Guard, at the home of his cousin, Mrs. D. Byrne, in Cork, Ireland. General Urell served in the civil and Spanish-American wars, and was recently retired from the District National Guard with the rank of general. He left here a month ago to visit his old home in Ireland.

Surgeon H. R. Carter, of the public health service, has been detailed to visit Russia, Germany and Italy to observe Asiatic cholera, particularly as the danger connected with the departure from affected districts of emigrants and other passengers.

A test will be made by Comptroller of the Currency, Murray of the question whether examination of National Bank can be better done by keeping an examiner in a certain district, as has been the custom, or by transforming examiners. There is a difference of opinion on these subjects. Some claim that an examiner is familiar with the securities in a bank would be a better judge of their value than a stranger. On the other hand it is argued that a more independent examination would be made by an examiner not influenced by local conditions or personal reaches. Murray has ordered the transfer of national examiners in twenty districts.

A practice of the Pennsylvania Railroad in allotting cars in times of car shortage will be discontinued after November 1, by order of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The action of the commission was taken on a complaint made by J. F. Jockey & Company and the Clark Bros. Coal Mining Company, having mines in Clearfield in Pennsylvania. In allotting cars the Pennsylvania did not charge against a mine private cars nor fuel cars of other railroads. The commission decided that such cars must be considered as part of all cars allotted to the mine.

Thomas P. Moffatt, American Consul at Bluefields, has been detailed by the State Department to represent the United States at a conference with Consul Olivares. The department announced today that Moffatt is to go to the conference, but merely because of the desirability of having the consultation at Managua fully cognizant of everything affecting American industries at the present time. While Gen. Estrada is understood to be undertaking various reforms and building up a new administration, Moffatt is especially familiar with conditions on the Atlantic Coast of Nicaragua. Consul Lee at San Jose, Costa Rica, will take charge of the Bluefield consulate temporarily.

Storm Warning. New York, Sept. 7.—The following official storm warning was posted by the weather bureau this afternoon:

"A tropical storm of considerable intensity prevails near and south of Porto Rico. It is moving west by north. San Juan reports a maximum wind of 72 miles an hour, and torrential rains."

More Earthquake Shocks. Cleveland, O., Sept. 7.—The records of two earthquakes were reported today at St. Ignace, Michigan. The first disturbance began at 2:13 and lasted until 2:47 a. m. The second shock began at 4:57, and continued until 5:21 a. m. Owing to the absence of preliminary shock records Father Odenbach is unable to estimate the distance.

Car Jumps the Track. Mansfield, O., Sept. 7.—Fifteen passengers on a Cleveland and Southwestern traction car were injured, two fatally and six seriously when the car jumped the tracks and overturned on a curve in the East outskirts of Mansfield today.

THE INSURGENT WAVE.

Wisconsin Swept by Progressives—

Senator La Follette Wins by a Vote of Four to One—Progressive Victories in Vermont, New Hampshire and Michigan.

Milwaukee, Sept. 7.—When Wisconsin awoke today it found itself swept by the wave of republican insurgency. Latest returns from the state-wide primaries yesterday indicate Senator La Follette's renomination by a vote of 4 to 1 over his opponent, Samuel A. Cook, millionaire paper manufacturer, "stand-patter."

La Follette carried nearly every county. The La Follette state ticket is also nominated almost certainly. It will be a La Follette platform convention and a La Follette state legislature.

Francis E. McGovern, progressive candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, carried the state, according to latest estimates, by a majority of 20,000 votes against Edward T. Fairchild, standpatter. Captain William Mitchell Lewis, candidate on the county option issue, finished third. The McGovern campaign endorsed the La Follette principles and attacked local option.

Latest returns from the eleven congressional districts of the state indicate the progressive wave overwhelmed the standpatters.

Although returns are not completed early today, it is generally believed later figures will not change the above results.

Progressive leaders at noon estimated La Follette's majority at 100,000. Burlington, Vt., Sept. 7.—That insurgency is an active force even in rock-ribbed republican Vermont is generally conceded today. With returns from only two counties and eight small towns missing, the plurality of Dr. John A. Mead, republican, for governor, over Charles D. Watson, democrat, in yesterday's election is estimated at about 16,000. These figures, even the republican admit, approach the danger mark, as indications of the general result in the rest of the country.

In the last state election the republican plurality was 20,054. Although figures are as yet unavailable, it is certain that the democrats in yesterday's voting made gains in both branches of the legislature, but United States Senator Carroll S. Page will doubtfully be re-elected.

Both republican congressmen, David J. Foster and Frank Plumley, were returned, but it will be some days before the size of their victory is known. C. D. Watson, the democratic candidate for governor, not only carried his home city of St. Albans, by a wide margin, reversing the republican victory of two years ago, but he also came within 35 votes of carrying Franklin county, which has always been known as strongly republican. Two years ago Franklin county went republican by 1,945.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 7.—That the progressive republicans are almost in complete control in New Hampshire was made certain today. Bolated returns from yesterday's election show that Robert P. Bass, insurgent, has been elected by nearly two to one as republican nominee for the governorship, over Col. Bertram Ellis, of Keene, regular at the first general primary election in the state's history. Returns from nearly two-thirds of the 290 election districts in the state give Bass the majority by almost 6,000 votes. If this average is maintained throughout the state it will mean that the regulars are routed, horse, foot and dragon.

One of the chief minor features of the election was the defeat in this city as delegates to the state convention of United States Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, chief supporter of Col. Ellis, and former Senator William F. Chandler.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—Incomplete returns early today from the general state primary election showed the governorship leading Senator Burton, for the senatorial nomination by 19,900; and Chase Osborn leading the other two candidates for the governorship nomination by 18,000. These figures were from about two-thirds of the state's voting precincts. Detroit was incomplete at 7 a. m., but was giving Burrows a slight lead.

The primary was a general victory for the progressives. Congressman Washington Gardner, a standpatter and Cannon man, was defeated for the nomination in the Third district by J. M. C. Smith, of Charlotte, an insurgent.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 7.—The prominent republican progressive in yesterday's primaries have been defeated, according to returns today from about sixty per cent. of the precincts of the state. The leading senatorial candidate, J. C. Oddie, defeated by W. A. Demassay for the republican nomination for governor, and George Sprimmeyer, defeated by Hugh Brown, for the republican nomination for attorney general. The returns also indicate a victory for the "democratic insurgents."

New York, Sept. 7.—The ports of insurgent victories all along the line yesterday threw a bomb into the old guard camp today and there was a hurried rush of the anti-Roosevelt leaders to this city for a conference.

The St. Leger Stakes. Doncaster, Eng., Sept. 7.—The $30,000 St. Leger stakes, the last year of the year's classic three-year-old races, was won today by the Earl of Derby's Swynford, ridden by F. Wootton.

The odds were 9 to 2 on Swynford; 20 to 1 on Bronzino and 5 to 4 on Lemberg. James A. De Rothschild's Bronzino was owned by Fairlie's Lemberg, third. There were twelve starters.

Official Reception of Cardinal. Montreal, Sept. 7.—North America for the first time today officially received an envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of a Roman pontiff, Cardinal Vannutelli, papal legate to the Eucharistic Congress now in progress here. Sir Lomer Gouin, prime minister of the province, and members of the legislative council, entertained the cardinal legate at luncheon.

Further official honors will be done Cardinal Vannutelli tonight when he will be the guest at a reception, at the Hotel Windsor, of Dominion Secretary of State Charles Murphy. At eleven there will be an hour of adoration at Notre Dame Church, and at midnight a pontifical high mass, with sermon and general communion.

Railroad Robber Captured.

St. Louis, Sept. 7.—Albert Julien, hunted by the police as the murderer of Flagman Vincent, of the Burlington, was captured at 9:30 this morning. He is identified as Julien, but denies that he killed Wine.

Not since the day when Jesse James and his brother Frank "stuck up" fast trains at will, has a more daring and spectacular robbery been attempted west of the Mississippi.

Fearful of retreating, and desperate because his pal had missed the Burlington Pacific coast express, the unidentified robber, thought to be Albert Julien, resolved to carry through his plan at any cost. He swung onto the rear end of the last of six Pullmans and climbed over the gate. There he encountered Flagman J. M. Wine. With an oath the bawling Wine threw his head back and showed Wine's body overboard, dead. The bandit was masked by a blue handkerchief. Opening the car door, the murderer was stopped by a negro porter, attracted by the shot. The porter was backed into a closet and locked in. Here, the train electrician, Thomas Griffin, entered the lavatory. The robber compelled Griffin to accompany him in the berth section. With the bandit covering both himself and the passengers, Griffin relieved five passengers of money and valuables. In less than ten minutes after he had murdered the trainman, the robber, fearing the train would carry him on to the Merchants' bridge, dashed through the door and jumped.

St. Louis, Sept. 7.—The police early today arrested Emil Freund, of Chicago, who confessed they say, that he and his pal, Albert Julien, also of Chicago, planned the hold-up of the Burlington Pacific Coast express train in the St. Louis yards last night. Both men were formerly stereotypes on a Chicago newspaper.

Compromise Decision. The Hague, Sept. 7.—Through the United States wins five of the seven counts in the North Atlantic fisheries case. Great Britain is victorious in respect to the two more important features, under a decision handed down by the International Court of Arbitration today. The main result of the decision is that Great Britain will have the authority to regulate fishing off the Newfoundland coast. The case which was argued by distinguished counsel, the American delegation having been headed by Senator Root, was one of the most important ever decided by the court, as it probably establishes an international precedent. The decision, in a general way, is looked upon as a compromise.

The chief points at issue related to the question whether the Newfoundland government could impose regulations upon the fishermen, without consulting the United States, since citizens of the United States enjoyed in common with the British the liberty of fishing in the waters. It is not believed that the decision will disturb the industry to any great extent, as the question of the actual right of the Americans to fish in the waters was not at issue.

NO MONEY FOR PUBLIC BUILDINGS. Because of investigations commenced a day or two ago by Postmaster Spencer, of Charlotte, N. C., of Supervising Architect Taylor, of the Treasury, as to why there was no money forthcoming at this time for the enlargement of the present post-office building at that place, it has been found that, although Congress on June 18 last voted to pass a public building bill, carrying what was supposed to be a general appropriation of something like $22,000,000, there is not a dollar now available for the construction of new buildings from such act. Ordinarily such actual appropriations would be made under the sundry civil bill, at the coming session of Congress, and the purpose of the law carried out. As a matter of fact, however, nothing has been done except to favorably consider "authorizations," so far as actual money is concerned, with the exception of the purchase of sites. All the towns in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia and Florida, and, in fact, elsewhere in the United States which are awaiting for work to begin, are without money at this time, and may in certain contingencies, be left high and dry.

Plot on Czar Frustrated. Friedberg, Germany, Sept. 7.—What the police believe to have been an attempt on the life of Czar Nicholas, now on a visit to Friedberg, was frustrated today when the inner sentries at the czars' temporary home turned back two supposed anarchists, who were dressed in the uniform of the Eighty-eighth regiment.

The two men, without permits, penetrated five lines of guards about the czar's home and had all reached the czar's room. The sentries demanded the visitors permits at which the men hastily retreated and made their escape. All the officers and men Eighty-eighth were engaged in manoeuvres at the time, which convinced the police that the men were disguised in stolen uniforms.

Reign of Crime in Italy. Rome, Sept. 7.—One of the most startling reigns of crime in the history of the Black Hand in Italy has come to light in the investigation into the murder at Pellaro, Calabria, of Policeman Giuseppe Rovellino, his wife and six children. Official figures given out today show that in July and August, there were 41 murders in the Pellaro district, 78 woundings, 90 bomb explosions, six kidnappings, and innumerable black-mailings. All of these crimes are attributed to the Black Hand, which is more active there than at any place in Italy.

The police are making wholesale arrests, but so far there is but little evidence against any of the suspects. Most of them are emigrants returned from America, where Rovellino formerly lived.

Preparations are being made by old Confederate soldiers to attend the reunion of Colonel John S. Mosby's command at Herndon, Fairfax county, next Saturday. Colonel W. H. Chapman says that he has been informed by a number of his former comrades that they intend going. It is hoped that Colonel Mosby will be present with his men once more.

ROOSEVELT AND TAFT.

The real break has come, Roosevelt is headed in one direction, Taft in the other.

The speech of the ex-president before the second National Conservation Congress at St. Paul yesterday marked the real parting of the ways, and the predictions of these who have held that this congress would be the scene of political developments of wide national significance have been fulfilled.

On Monday President Taft, after declaring that he had inherited his conservation policies from Theodore Roosevelt and rejoined in the inheritance, proceeded to lay down another and different policy.

The immediate effect of this was the digression by Roosevelt from his prepared speech and the emphatic enunciation of a conservation doctrine directly the reverse in certain vital features of the one so judiciously uttered by his successor in the high office of president.

Taft straddled the state versus national control proposition and deliberately dodged the water-power issue. Roosevelt, with a bluntness and boldness that set the crowd wild, declared for national control over all conservation projects, land and water, vehemently asserting that it is solely a question of the "special interests" against those of the "plain people and the back of the states' rights movement is the desire of the predatory corporations to pillage the public freed of all control.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS. There are 1,500 Confederate veterans of North Carolina in Norfolk for their annual encampment, which commenced yesterday and will continue through today. Heading the Confederates is Gen. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, their commander-in-chief, and with him are most of the other living Carolina leaders of the Confederacy. The families of and other visitors there with the veterans number between 5,000 and 6,000.

Mayor Rickard assisted the visitors, that the city was theirs to do with as they pleased. Speechmaking took place at the formal opening of the reunion, but yesterday afternoon the veterans were called together to transact business.

General Carr and all other officers were re-elected, and Wilmington, N. C., was chosen as the next place of meeting. The singing yesterday of the Confederate choir of Portsmouth greatly pleased the veterans.

DEAD BABY FOUND IN SATCHEL.

H. F. Tanner, a Norfolk and Western Railroad engineer, and Mrs. Ida Dean have been admitted to bail in the sum of $1,500 each upon the charge of infanticide. Several days ago an infant was found dead concealed in a satchel in a piece of woodland near Shawanah City, Page county. Evidence pointed to Mrs. Dean as the mother of the infant, and upon this evidence a warrant was sworn out before Magistrate Bickers, of Shawanah, for the woman's arrest. Mrs. Dean said she gave the infant to Tanner soon after its birth.

So strong was the suspicion from the first that the infant's body was found by persons who were hunting for it. The woman is about 27 years of age. The coroner's jury which investigated the case has not yet reported its findings.

COCAINE GRAFT.

Governor Crothers, who is making a personal investigation of the the Baltimore police department, sprung a surprise at yesterday's hearing, when he declared he would prove "graft" in connection with the sale of cocaine, amounting in one case to $10,000. The governor declared he expected to prove that one drug store in the city did a cocaine business amounting to $900 a week, while another did at least twice that much. He said that he would show that cocaine had been sold everywhere and without restraint.

He asserted that he expected to reveal by a full confession the names of four policemen who were paid weekly stipends by the transgressors of the law for protection.

Tortured by Burglars. Latrobe, Pa., Sept. 7.—Mrs. James Rosborough, aged 60, is in a serious condition today, as a result of being tortured by two burglars because she refused to disclose the hiding place of her money. When found by her husband she was buried under a pile of furniture, with feet tied to a stove, hands strapped behind her, and a cloth saturated with turpentine stuffed into her mouth.

Ten persons were stricken by the suffocating heat in Washington yesterday before the storm swept across the city in the late afternoon and drenched the streets with cooling rain. Hospital ambulances were kept on jump all day, but there were no deaths.

The republican congressional district convention will be held in Fredericksburg Tuesday, September 27, to consider the question of nominating a republican candidate for Congress from that district to oppose William A. Jones the democratic nominee.

Mrs. Christina Shown, aged 95 years and 8 months, the oldest woman in Shenandoah county, fell last Thursday and broke her hip, from which injury she died Monday. Her grandfather, Schaeffer, who came from Pennsylvania 150 years ago, died aged 101. Of her sisters and brothers three died at 77, two at 87, one at 93 and the oldest at 98.

Governor Crothers of Maryland has resumed his investigation of the police department, of Baltimore, the cocaine traffic being under the probe. It is alleged that Dr. Dull said he paid $10,000 for protection and Purke P. McCubbin swore that he paid from $100 to $200 a month to members of the force. He mentioned the names of those he charged with receiving money.

John Hughes, 37 years old, was arrested yesterday afternoon in Newport News on a warrant charging him with criminally assaulting Annie Ward, his 13-year-old stepdaughter. The prisoner was locked up to await a hearing before Justice Brown, in the Police Court, tomorrow morning. Hughes is a mechanic employed at the shipyard, and lives at 238 Twenty-ninth street.

After an illness of six days with pneumonia, Vice President Elias F. Fernandez of the republic of Chili since the death of President Pedro Montt at Bremen, Germany, August 16, died yesterday at Santiago. Immediately after his demise a decree was signed appointing Minister of Justice Emilio Figueroa acting president.

Following the sale of 50,000 acres of land in Coahuila, Mexico, to the Mormons, comes the report from Prophet Hamilton Smith, of the Mormon Church, that Diaz has promised the Mormons liberty for the full practice of their religion, which means polygamy, without interference. This offer of the church further states that a warrant was sworn out before Magistrate Bickers, of Shawanah, for the woman's arrest. Mrs. Dean said she gave the infant to Tanner soon after its birth.

Mrs. Margaret Cook, 26 years old, of Westmoreland county, is at the home of a distant relative in Washington suffering from pellagra. Her husband, employed at a Virginia planing mill, has spent the greater part of two days, assisted by physicians to the poor, trying to induce some hospital to care for his wife. The hospital authorities hold that they are not in duty bound to care for cases sent to the District of Columbia from Virginia. Unless the District will agree to pay all the expenses, it is likely that Mrs. Cook will be returned to her Virginia home, there to await the action of the authorities of her state.

Paris Stanton, one of the few negro policemen of Pittsburg, Pa., is held in custody to await the result of a shot he fired Monday at John Applebald, 19 years old, whom the officer sought to arrest for playing "crap." The lad broke away from the officer, and a bullet from Stanton's revolver followed him. The shooting took place in the park. The spectators threatened violence, a crowd chasing the officer almost within shelter of the police station, where he was arrested. He claims that he meant to fire into the air to frighten the boy. At the hospital it is said the lad's wound may prove fatal.

Minister Sustained. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 7.—That Rev. William H. Hubbard, former pastor of the fashionable Mill Street Baptist Church, was within his rights when he denounced from the pulpit Mrs. Helen H. Haggart, a wealthy member of his congregation, for permitting her children to dance and play cards, was the decision of the Central Hudson Baptist Association today. The association considered the appeal of Rev. Hubbard from the order of the trustees of the church, terminating his pastorate, at an all night session, during which better personalities were indulged in, and today returned a verdict that the trustees were right. The trustees were ordered to reinstate Hubbard. The case has been filled with sensational developments from the time Mrs. Haggart took exception to a sermon the minister preached last winter, denouncing dancing and card playing. During a prayer meeting she took occasion to say she considered it knowledge of how to play "bridge," and to dance, essential in the education of a child, and that her children were being so taught.

The following Sunday Rev. Hubbard denounced Mrs. Haggart from the pulpit and told her in so many words that she was not a Christian. She demanded that she either have card playing and dancing at her home stopped or withdraw from the church. The congregation divided into two camps. The majority were with Mrs. Haggart, and held that Hubbard was "old fogeyish" and a "lack number." Leading members of the church said they will withdraw and start another church if the trustees obey the mandate of the Baptist Association.
